

There is a River

There is a river ever-flowing,
That makes the hearts of Christians glad;
A stream of grace that's never-ending,
E'en though their lives are oft-times sad.
A well of living water flows,
Unto all those the Savior knows.

Our fathers baptized into Moses,
All ate the manna, spiritual food;
Their drink was more than man supposes,
God in His love gives all things good.
He gave them Christ to be their Head,
The Living Water, Living Bread.

Now unto to us a cup of blessing,
A true communion in Christ's blood;
The holy bread we are partaking,
Body of Christ, is our true food.
"Take, eat, and drink," the Savior said,
"I give you life, life from the dead!"

Come to the river ever-flowing,
Christ has redeemed us, be not sad;
Drink of His mercies never-ending,
Lift up your hearts, rejoice, be glad!
Now at His Table, let us raise;
Voices to God in endless praise.
